RoutledgeCurzon (Taylor & Francis Group)

RoutledgeCurzon, belonging to the Taylor & Francis Group is one of the World's leading international academic publisher particularly within social sciences and humanities, with an output of some 200 titles per year including an ambitious Asian Studies publishing programme. The larger Taylor & Francis Group publishes more than 700 journals, including South Asian Popular Culture, and Contemporary South Asia. The foundations of the company were laid in 1798, when Richard Taylor launched the Philosophical Magazine, one of the first scientific journals produced by an independent company. The Routledge Group, also with a long history, was acquired in 1998, and Curzon Press was also incorporated a few years later. Between 2001 and 2003 RoutledgeCurzon were distributors for NIAS Press, but this distribution agreement has terminated.

Women Unlimited (an associate of Kali for Women)

Women Unlimited, a non-profit trust, is an associate of Kali for Women, India's first and oldest feminist press, which publishes scholarly and academic books in the social sciences; fiction; general interest non-fiction; books for young adults; pamphlets and monographs; and activist material. Women Unlimited will continue all the publishing activity of Kali for Women. .

Started in 1984, in a Delhi garage, Kali for Women has been providing a viable publishing mouthpiece to Indian feminism. Both Ritu Menon (Publishing for Social Change) and Urvashi Butalia came to publishing with substantial technical training as well as a strong commitment to feminist activism. It is not surprising then that from its early days Kali's catalogue shows an interesting mix of theory and practice. Some of Kali's biggest print runs have been activist publications which don't necessarily bring in any money, but redefine issues of women's lives in a positive way. Kali's list of authors include well known writers like Radha Kumar, Vandana Shiva and Maria Mies.
